Introduction from Lornette Daye

Welcome to the Finish Strong series.

As a former elite sprinter, Canadian National Team athlete, and coach, I know exactly what it feels like to stand on the starting line with the weight of the world on your shoulders. I know the sting of setbacks, the grind of daily discipline, and the pressure to perform at a world-class level.

But I also know the power of resilience, faith, and elite mental fortitude.

These materials are designed for you—the elite student-athlete navigating high-stakes environments, million-dollar NIL landscapes, global media scrutiny, and the immense pressure of expectation. Over the course of this journey, we will focus on building your identity, your brand equity, and your purpose beyond the scoreboard. My message to you is simple: no matter how the race begins, you have the power to Finish Strong.

Take time to reflect, prepare, and dominate. You are more than an athlete; you are a global enterprise and a leader.

Finish Strong,

Lornette Daye

Grounding in a Hyper-Accelerated World

When you are generating massive revenue and dealing with international fame, your reality becomes distorted. Gratitude is not just a nice thought; it is a neurological necessity to anchor you to reality and prevent arrogance from destroying your brand.

REAL WORLD FACT:

Neuroscience studies on elite performers show that structured daily gratitude decreases the amygdala's fear response, allowing athletes to perform better in high-pressure, clutch situations.

Day 1: Anchoring Reality

Name one person who told you 'no' recently, and why you are grateful they protected you from a bad decision:

What is one privilege your current financial/athletic status provides that you must never take for granted?
